I have read several articles in the media that demonstrate that the Proposed Final Judgment, as written, allows and encourages significant anticompetitive practices to continue, would delay the emergence of competing Windows-compatible operating systems, and is therefore not in the public interest. If this is the case, then it should not be adopted without substantial revision to address these problems.

For the record: I am a citizen of the United States of America, currently residing abroad.

Best regards,

Peter Varlien
